Seminar to mark

The World Book and Copyright Day

Ratan K Das | Dhaka | April 28, 2018

April 23rd is considered as a symbolic date for world literature. UNESCO created World Book and Copyright Day to pay a world-wide tribute to books and authors on this date.

World Book and Copyright Day is a celebration to promote the enjoyment of books and reading. Each year, on 23 April, celebrations take place all over the world to recognize the magical power of books - a link between the past and the future, a bridge between generations and across cultures. On this occasion, Bangladesh Knowledge and Creative Publishers' Association (Bangladesh Gyan O Srijonshil Prokashak Samiti) organised a seminar titled 'Role of Copyright Law in boosting talent' at Sufia Kamal Auditorium of Bangladesh National Museum. The event also featured an award programme.

Before the seminar, a colourful rally was brought out from the Teacher-Student Center (TSC) of Dhaka University in the morning.

Cultural Affairs Minister Asaduzzaman Noor attended in the event as the chief guest. Acting Cultural Affairs Secretary Md Nasir Uddin Ahmed attended as the special guest at the seminar. Zafar Raza Chowdhury, the registrar of the Copyright Board, chaired the seminar. Among others, Mohammad Nurul Huda, member of Copyright Board, copyright researcher, poet and president of Bangladesh writers' Club, Dhaka; Md Mashiur Rahman, additional secretary of Cultural Affairs Ministry and chairman of the Copyright Board; Khan Mahbub, part-time teacher of the department of Print and Publication of Dhaka University and Sheikh Sadi Khan, Ekushey Award-winning music composer and director were also present there.

In his speech, Asaduzzaman Noor said his ministry will work together with several other ministries like information, post and telecommunication, and home affairs to put into action copyright law. His ministry will do everything necessary to ensure a healthy copyright scene.

Copyright officials said Bangladesh Copyright Office will open a legal support centre very soon to help intellectual property owner like artists, singers, musicians, and others. The centre will provide legal support to victims of piracy. Zafar Raza Chowdhury said an intellectual property lawyer will be available once in a week to help the centre. The existing copyright law is being amended for better implementation. Anyone can send their opinions on the amendment by logging into the official website of the copyright office, he added.

Mohammad Nurul Huda presented the key-note paper titled 'Medha Sampad Bikashe Copyright-er Bhumika' where he analysed the importance of copyright awareness among intellectual property owners and necessity of proper implementation of copyright law. Little or no awareness about copyright among intellectual property owners and absence of functioning copyright society are the main reasons behind copyright violations. Sheikh Sadi Khan said the copyright office should make the process of copyright registration easy for artists.

At the end of the seminar, Bangladesh Copyright Office honoured Bengal Foundation with 'Medhasampad Surakkha Sammanana'. Copyright Office mentioned that Bengal Foundation is following copyright law properly in its cultural and creative activities. Director General of Bengal Foundation Luva Nahid Chowdhury received this award from the minister.

bur Rahman, Bangla Academy Director General Shamsuzzaman Khan, Bangladesh UNESCO National Commission Secretary M Monjur Hossain, prominent writer and journalist Anisul Huq, author Ali Imam, Bishwa Sahitya Kendra co-team leader Sharif Md Masud, Academic and Creative Publishers Association Bangladesh's president Farid Ahmed and television personality Abdur Noor Tushar were also present there. The event chaired by BSK Founder and Chairman Abdullah Abu Sayeed.

The chief guest Education Minister Nurul Islam Nahid has urged students to read books. He said there is no alternative to reading books for knowledge as the attitude would have a way to prepare an enlightened new generation. He also said with the assistance of the BSK, the attitude of book reading development programme is being implemented at 12,117 educational institutes of 250 upazilas since 2010 under the Secondary Education Enhancement Project (SEEP) of the education ministry. Under this project, 8.3 million students have got the privilege of reading books, providing them more than 6.5 million creative books till 2017. The government deployed 1,400 Assistant Teacher as Librarians in the schools, he added.

Bangla Academy Director General said reading habit boosts mortality of people, and inspires them to be progressive and logical. M Sohrab Hossain said acceptance of printed books would not be lost amidst the availability of electronic books. Farid Ahmed said the government should implement the copyright laws. Access to the library should be created at the grassroots level to spread knowledge, he added.
